

Tennessee Wings of Liberty Museum Update 4/13/26

Only 32 days until we open the doors!

With the large artifacts in place, work has shifted to installing the technology, and the detailed process of mounting the artifacts. Teams from the Army Center of Military History have been onsite providing expertise in this process. We are also nearing completion of the final outdoor construction. You can see the results yourself in just over a month, when we open the doors to the public the afternoon of 15 May.

A CMH expert performing the detailed process of preparing an artifact for mounting.

A life size video panel being installed as part of the MH-47 exhibit. You'll get a pre-flight briefing at this spot when you visit the museum.

Rendering of the entrance

The public entrance wall and signage under construction the intersection of Tiny Road and HWY 41A

We are almost there! Please consider helping get us over the finish line. Thank You.
